I'd like to request permission to attend Connections 2019 from June 24-26, 2019 in Colorado Springs, Co. Technological disruptors and game-changing opportunities continue to shift the way logistics and supply chain professionals do business, and this conference will allow me to examine the latest trends from a uniquely qualified roster of industry experts.

At the summer conference, I'll learn how to separate the latest fads from developments that truly matter to our business. With that knowledge, I can translate the latest trends and valuable transportation intelligence into action, adding value to our business and creating new opportunities. I'll also have ample time to network with like-minded supply chain professionals, making valuable business contacts and exploring new ways to address transportation issues.

Conference organizer SMC<sup>3</sup> has booked panelists dedicated to showing us how to translate valuable information into action, leading to improved efficiencies for companies like ours. Connections 2019 comprises more than 42 hours of content, presenting panels like:
